Sunday's Courier-Journal. "I rode before them-when, a host, they left for the front-and the flag fluttered above ne; but those of them who returned after the horrors of war came in scattered groups-and

Mrs. Abner Hord of Maysville, a quiet little woman, told this to a group of survivers of the Ninth-Kentucky Cavalry at the Confederate Home. It is a story of a lost flag and lost cause, and the flag was the standard borne by Jefferson Davis' last escort. Mrs. Hord is seeking to find the silken banner-made of her sister's wedding dress-but all her efforts have been of no avail.

The story goes back to the beginning of the war. Women of Bath county, when the famous Ninth Kentucky rode out to the war, made a gorgeous banner for Colonel Stoner's battalion. At the battle of Stone River this flag was captured and when the battalion returned in '63 it was without a flag. Silks were scarce during those days-the trials of war had brought economy, and even suffering, in many a household-but Mrs. Hord, then Miss Ellen Sanders and a very young woman, offered to make a banner. Her sister's wedding dress served as material. The flag was presented to the battalion. By the side of Colonel Stoner, Miss Sanders rode at the head of the column as it started out on its mission. Above the two fluttered the banner. In the fighting that followed, the flag was lost. All inquiries by Mrs. Hord, though sometimes they sought the banner. Friday she again inquired of survivors of the Ninth Kentucky, but again,

REPUBLICAN TICKET.

FOR PRESIDENT, WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT. FOR VICE PRESIDENT, JAMES S. SHERMAN. FOR CONGRESS, HON. HARRY BAILEY.

If the American laborer wants goods at the market price in Germany he should be satisfied with the market price of lator in Germany.

Under the last Democratic President 40, 000 pensioners were dropped. Tens of thousands of pensioners were reduced.

Every man and woman on the rolls was persecuted.

More than $200,000 spent for vicious spies.

WILSON FOOLING THE FARMER.

The farmer cannot be fooled. He knows what a very small fraction of our agricultural products sells abroad. He knows that the balk of our agricultural products is sold at home. He knows that if American wage earners are prosperous there are good prices for farm products; that if American wageearners are not prosperous there are poor prices for farm products. He knows that American wage-earners can be prosperous only by-our continuing to maintain American industries employing them against the competition of cheap foreign industries.

Mr. Wilson on the stump tells the farmer he could get $30 a year off the cost of his implements. Mr. Wilson naturally does not like to tell the farmer that the price of his butter is too high, the price of his poultry too high, the price of his eggs too high, the price of his grain too high, the price of his mutton too high, the price of his vegetables too high, and so on. So he goes in for the price of the farmer's implements - $30 a year. The farmer will tell Mr. Wilson at the polls that he doesn't care to save $30 a year on implements at the cost of fifty cents a bushel, say, on a thousand bushels of wheat a year.

Pointed Paragraphs.

The average girl never gets more than one proposal of marriage-because she is always afraid she will not get another .- Chicago SOME COLD FACTS.

A house divided against itself must fall.

A vote for the progressive ticket is a vote to divide the Republican party.

It is a vote that means the election of Wilson and Democracy, not the election of any one else.

The election of Wilson means the tampering with the income of the American business man, the wage-earner and the farmer, for it means the destruction of the protective tariff system and the placing of American manufactures, American farm products and American pay envelopes in competition with those of the whole world, irrespective of the cost of production or standard of living.

The only way that the American business man, the American farmer and the American wage-earner can protect his income is to not split the Republican party, which has main- it has expanded in the last few years he paid for a telephone call. He pretained the protective tariff, for the only way necessary to send sufferers from the latter brought him a visitor's card, to defeat Wilson and the Democracy is to maintain the Republican party in power.

No. 6---THE LOANING OF MONEY

To business men and women-and today there are few of us who are not in some way identified with business-even if it be but the business of financing a household-we offer facilities which are unsurpassed.

We are pleased to lend money to thrifty people, and to firms or corporations, as we are to receive their deposits.

Few large businesses are ever established without the aid of bank leans; and the possibilities of business success are vastly increased by good banking accomodations.

REAL PROGRESS UNDER TAFT

Many Progressive Measures Put in Force

THE WHOLE PEOPLE SERVED

duce Rates, Parcels Post Law Enacted and Other Notable Progres- and by constantly failing to cure with local treat sive Policies Made Effective by Taft Without Boasting and Noise.

wi h Russia for better passports for French Dispassionate judges will accord to the Taft administration the credit of themarket. It is taken internally in doses from putting in force more measures of a positively progressive character than any other administration since the civil war. Not only have such measures been numerous, but they have been of great and far-reaching importance. President Taft has labored in defatigably to serve the whole people, and by means of his broad experience ider the advisability of quarantining against and rare judicial mind and having at his command legal talen of the highest order he has put his progressive A flat charge for all packages regardless of policies one after another into valid contents and distance of transportation was and practical legislation. This has Whether vindicated or not at the coming election, Mr. Taft's work will stand as a chapter of achievement as brilliant as it is meritorious.

> We wish at this time to invite atten tion to two specific features of gov ernmental progress. One consists of the interstate commerce commission's investigation of the express companies, resulting in the recent report ordering the companies to reduce rates and institute sweeping reforms in various directions. The other is the enactment of the Bourne parcels pos bill, one of the most useful measures ever put in force in this country under any administration. These two re forms, taken in connection, will exert a powerful influence for a reduction of the cost of living.

Mr. Taft has been in complete sympathy with the interstate commerce mmission's inquiry into the express pects with the administration's general policy of compelling big corpora tions to square themselves with the the more powerful corporations do not like that policy, but the public ought o indorse it. The enactment of a par cels post law brings to fruition a plan that found indorsement in the plat form upon which the president was elected. Through the action of the senate the Bourne bill, looking to parcels service at the lowest practica ole rates within a given territory, was substituted for the house bill with its flat rate provisions. The measure as passed probably is not perfect, nor should the rates be regarded as per manent. The plan is experimental in certain respects. But we believe th principle of the act is correct. One of the most important aspects of this measure is its bearing on the food sit uation. It will give consumers and pro ducers a new medium of direct con tact. The interstate commerce commission's rulings respecting the express companies also make special account of this problem. The express companies are required to order their business in such a manner as to give quicker service and lower rates on food products.

It is recognized by all economic investigators that one of the greatest problems related to the cost of living is that which has to do with the sys tem of distribution. Express reforms and the parcels post will be of great value in promoting prompter and cheaper distribution of food products especially, and at the same time the hensive as to apply to all classes of merchandise. Production, too, should be greatly stimulated by the influence

We do not say that President Taft leserves the sole credit for these de partures, but we cite them as features of an administration that some persons would have us believe is nonprogressive, when in reality they form a logi cal part of a great progressive epoch which opened with the inauguration of Mr. Taft, and which, in the people's patriotism and good sense, will be con tinued during four more years of the same courageous and able leadership.

00000000000000000000000000 Extract from statement of Mr. Roosevelt, dated Nov. 8, 1904:

"On the 4th day of March next I shall have served three and one-half years, and this three and one-half years constitutes my first term.
